

A NOTE FROM THE DEAN OF FACULTY

In 2010-11 Pitzer successfully completed the final phase of its multi-year reaccreditation effort, the Educational Effectiveness Review, by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges and is reaccredited for the next eight years. This successful outcome was a collective effort by a vibrant community of students, staff and faculty.

This academic year, we welcome four outstanding new faculty members: Melissa Hidalgo, assistant professor of English and world literature, Ruti Talmor, assistant professor of media studies, Bryan Thines, assistant professor of biology, and Branwen Williams, assistant professor of environmental analysis. We will be conducting searches for tenure track faculty members in political studies, psychology, sociology, Chicano/a Latino/a transnational studies, environmental analysis, Keck Science-biology, Keck Science-chemistry, and Keck Science-environmental analysis, as well as reinitiating the search for the founding faculty director for the Institute for Global-Local Action and Study (I-GLAS).

2011-12 marks my eleventh and final year as Dean of Faculty. During my time as Dean, 47 tenure-track faculty, including W.M. Keck Science faculty members, have joined the College. In the upcoming academic year we will be recruiting for nine more tenure track faculty members, three of whom will be in the Keck Science Department. For the first time in the Claremont Colleges' history, the Intercollegiate Ethnic Studies Departments have begun making full time tenure track appointments tailored to their specific academic needs. It has been a remarkable period of programmatic growth at Pitzer. We have added the Firestone Center for Restoration Ecology, the Marquet/Ferre Vaccine Research Center, and the Lenzer Family Gallery and will soon begin work on a conservancy center in support of our new environmental analysis program. We have also established the Institute for Global Local Action and Study, which will extend and create new strategic synergies in the extraordinary work already being done by our Office of Study Abroad and International Programs and the College's Community Engagement Center. The amazing dynamism of Pitzer faculty, staff and students is reflected in the fact that, for eight straight years, Pitzer students have received more Fulbright Fellowships per 1000 than any other college or university in the country.

I would also like to acknowledge the tremendous academic productivity of my colleagues on the Pitzer faculty. It has been my pleasure to see each of our faculty members grow in their roles as teachers-scholars. Finally, I would like to thank the Pitzer faculty, the staff in the Dean of Faculty's Office and President Trombley for their patience and unstinting support during my years as Dean. I firmly believe that the tangible product of your collective efforts, as we move toward Pitzer's 50th anniversary, has positioned this institution to do the global, intercultural and interdisciplinary work better than any liberal arts college in the country.

My best to all for the coming academic year.

Alan Jones
Dean of Faculty and Vice President for Academic Affairs

GRANTS

Ciara Ennis (Art)

Ciara Ennis received a grant from the Pasadena Art Alliance to support catalogue production for the upcoming exhibition, Synthetic Ritual. $4,000. Fall 2011.

Paul Faulstich (Environmental Analysis)

Professor Faulstich is the principal investigator and project coordinator for an Arthur Vining Davis Foundation Grant to develop an academic program on Sustainability and the Built Environment. $150,000. 2011–2014.

Azamat Junisbai (Sociology)

Professor Junisbai received an International Research & Exchanges Board (IREX) Short-Term Travel Grant to support a second wave of public opinion surveys about inequality and economic justice in Kyrgyzstan and Kazakhstan. $7,500. August 2011.

Jesse Lerner (Media Studies)

Professor Lerner received a Creative Capital/Warhol Foundation Arts Writers Grant for his in-progress book on violence and contemporary art. $45,000. January 2011.

Professor Lerner received post-production funding from the Instituto Mexicano de Cinematografía for his in-progress documentary, The Absent Stone. $118,000. 2011–2012.

John Milton (Biology)

Professor Milton received a National Science Foundation Research Grant for his project, Noise, Delays and Development of Expertise. $335,199. 2010–2013.

David Moore (Psychology)

Professor Moore received a National Science Foundation Grant for a three-day workshop on Exploring the Concept of Homology in Developmental Psychology, to be held at Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada. $32,292. August 2011.

Professor Moore, in collaboration with Alan Hartley, Michael Spezio and Stacey Wood from Scripps College and Catherine Reed from Claremont McKenna College, received a National Science Foundation Grant for the purchase of a high-density electrophysiology laboratory for intercollegiate research and training in cognitive neuroscience. $411,008. 2010–2013.
