Pitzer's Institutional Commitment to Service Statement

"Since its inception (and, in large part, as an inspiration for it), Pitzer College has been committed to fostering in its students a critical depth of understanding around the social and political implications of knowledge and action. Students who can skillfully engage in ethical projects of social change and political engagement (both locally and globally) and educators whose teaching and scholarship encompass both disciplinary rigor and applied benefits for our communities are primary goals of our school. All of these efforts positively enhance the College's mission to have "social responsibility and concern with the ethical implications of knowledge and action."

DESCRIPTION

The Kallick Community Service Award is only available to currently registered Pitzer students who have actively participated in community service related activities during the 2019-2020 academic year. Length of service may vary depending on the type of community-based placement or internship/ site project; however, at minimum, each applicant must have personally contributed at least 100 hours of service on their social responsibility projects and these hours must be verifiable.

The student must have completed this service with a community-based agency. This includes clubs and student organizations as long as the student can establish a significant link to the off-campus community. Other factors that will influence granting the award include the breadth and depth of the service opportunity and must meet the Institutional Commitment to Service Statement (included below and again on the next page where you will paste your narrative).

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

Instructions for Completing Project Description Narrative (please send as PDF):

Please describe your project in detail, the connection of the project to the larger Institutional Commitment to Service Statement, and the impact of this service with and within the community.

Indicate in the project description field in narrative format and the associated quantitative measures all of the information on your project including but not limited to:

- Who from Pitzer participates in the service (students, faculty, staff, alumni, etc.);
- Who benefits from the service;
- Detailed evidence, including quantification, and description of the project's benefits to the population served;
 - Which practices in your project or support from Pitzer faculty/staff/clubs were found particularly helpful or effective;
 - Indication of whether student participation was during regular academic sessions or during summer or other breaks or as part of curricula or extra-curricular activities (indicate frequency of service);
 - Collaborations with community agencies;
 - Whether the project was supported by Federal Work-Study, CNCS programs, or other government programs;
 - Clear connection to the Institutional Commitment to Service Statement (see below)

You are welcome to email triciam@pitzer.edu with questions about developing a strong proposal. This is the primary focus of your application and our committee reads these thoroughly. You should pay attention to detail and polish on your narrative in addition to the quality and careful consideration of your service work.
